

A demerger is a form of corporate restructuring in which the entity's business operations are segregated into one or more components. It is exactly the converse of a merger. Demergers can be undertaken for various business and non-business reasons.

Studio Associato Santececchi may take care of a careful analysis of all variables associated to such an extraordinary operation.